COMPUTER PRODUCTS CORP. WELCOMES KURTIS LINDEMANN AS NEW CHIEF EXECUTIVE OFFICER

Kurtis Lindemann, a seasoned technology professional, takes the reigns from long-standing CEO Jim Volpenhein setting chart for growth and expansion

CINCINNATI, JANUARY 4, 2023 - Computer Products Corporation (CPC) announced today the transition in leadership from long-time owner and chief executive officer Jim Volpenhein to seasoned technology executive Kurtis Lindemann.

Mr. Lindemann comes to CPC from RoundTower Technologies where he was chief information officer and chief technology officer. As a founding partner at RoundTower, Mr. Lindemann was instrumental in growing the company into a $500 million powerhouse with a roster of major clients. Mr. Lindemann served several positions through his 13 year stint at RoundTower, including executive vice president of systems engineering, vice president of systems engineering, and director of systems engineering.

"Kurtis is remarkable," said Mr. Volpenhein. "His accomplishments speak for themselves, and we're thrilled to make this transition to such a skilled veteran in this industry," Mr. Volpenhein continued.

With a background with some of the largest OEM corporations and as an engineer, Mr. Lindemann's experience is an accelerant to CPC's deep bench of technologists. Mr. Lindemann has worked for EMC, NetApp, and 3Com, as well as working for his alma mater, The Ohio State University.

"I'm excited to be a part of such a long-standing organization with this talented group of engineers," said Mr. Lindemann. "Their passion for these technologies, combined with the fantastic slate of partnerships makes for fertile ground for growth."

Mr. Lindemann graduated from The Ohio State University with a degree in computer science, and resides in Loveland, Ohio with his wife and three children. He is active in Maple Knoll Communities, and coaches Cincinnati Swords youth hockey in his spare time.
